SOUTH PARIS NEWS

DONATION DAY FOR HOSPITAL

The Central Maine General Hospital has a deficit to make up each year. Accident and emergency cases have always been received and cared for regardless of where they came from or their ability to pay.

Individuals from the town of "Paris" have frequently made donations to the hospital, and this year has never been a general call for assistance, nor have the donors ever been sufficiently large in number to indicate the appreciation of the community.

Wednesday, Nov. 16th, has been selected as Donation Day for the hospital and the Community Club has agreed to collect vegetables, canned goods, and funds on that day. Anyone not solicited may leave their donation, together with their name, at the store of R. K. Butts.

Gilmán H. Penley

Gilmán H. Penley died at his home on the Helder road early Sunday morning, Nov. 6, after an illness of a week. His age was 69 years. Mr. Penley had for years carried on a machine and repair shop at the place where he lived. He was the son of Joseph G. and Sarah T. (Perry) Penley. One brother, John P. Penley, of Norway, survives him. The funeral was held at 2 o'clock, Tuesday.

Mrs. Sarah E. Wise

After a long period of feeble health, Mrs. Sarah E. Wise died early Sunday morning, Nov. 6, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Clara Doble, on Gothic Street. She was 85 years of age. Mrs. Wise was born in South Paris about nine years ago. She was the daughter of Cyrus and Sophia Dunn, but much of her life was spent in Boston, where she was engaged in dressmaking. She was a Universalist. Mrs. Wise leaves one sister, Mrs. Doble, and other more distant relatives. The funeral was at 1:30 Tuesday.

Paris Grange

Paris Grange held an all-day session, Saturday, November 5. There was a rather small attendance. The first degree was worked in the morning. After dinner, the second degree followed by a very interesting program.

A nominating committee, consisting of A. P. Stearns, I. O. Swift and R. S. Gates was appointed. The annual meeting for the election of officers will be December 5, November 19, the third and fourth degree will be worked.

Irving O. Barrows

Irving O. Barrows reached home Sunday from a hunting trip near Rangelyville. His party was caught in the snow and he was unable to return. He was found by the Rangelyville men. They found roads through the snow and he was able to return. He was found by the Rangelyville men. They found roads through the snow and he was able to return.

The impact forced the Lincoln car against the side of the Ford sedan, and the Ford sedan, which was in the lead, was thrown into the air. No one was injured and the cars travelled off under their own power.

The annual fair of the Universalist

Church was held Thursday evening in Good Cheer Hall. There was a good sale during the afternoon and a large patronage to the supper. Grandstanding exercises of Binville Grammar School entertained a crowded house in the evening. Officers greatly exaggerated by boys and girls whose ages ranged from twenty to fifty-five, were amusing. Miss Emma E. West was soloist with Mrs. Agnes Morton at the piano.

The first mail to reach South Paris

after Thursday night because of the storm, arrived here about 9:30 Saturday morning, in a closed pouch and sacks sent from Lewiston by the Lewiston train. A train also left Portland at 9:30 a. m., Saturday, arriving here about half past eleven. This was the first train out of Portland on the Grand Trunk since Thursday. The Lewiston train went on to Locke's Mills and came back, so that we got mail from both ends of the line. Trains from Portland went through to Shelburne, N. H., and returned on Monday. Nothing reached here from points beyond.

Heard and Seen at Advertiser Office

F. W. Gaston, Passaic, N. J., writes: "Have just been reading a yarn in the Advertiser about a fish being taken on a fly. Most of them on feather dusters. Of that number less than 25 have been killed. The fish look much like a trout, but are much smaller. That is an uncommon fish story, as it is the truth."

He really invites us to write a fish story, which means a yarn. We will, however, say during the past season we have caught 151 fish, 12 salmon, 2 togo, 1 bass, and 100 trout. We have also caught 151 fish, 12 salmon, 2 togo, 1 bass, and 100 trout. We have also caught 151 fish, 12 salmon, 2 togo, 1 bass, and 100 trout.

Another batch of posters done here are telling the folks about the Friday evening, Nov. 11. This is the annual event under the auspices of Henry Stone Post American Legion and runs from 12 to 12 o'clock. The poster is a fine one, as usual. That is an uncommon fish story, as it is the truth."

Edith Peura of Harrison, charged in the complaint of State Highway Police, C. E. Patten with drunken driving was adjudged guilty and fined $100 and costs. She was in jail. Respondent appealed, unable to furnish bail, was committed to the State Prison for 30 days.

Paul Nevers was in, Saturday, and placed an order for Thanksgiving Ball tickets, tickets and dance orders. The ball will be given at the Norway Opera House, Thursday evening, November 24. This will be the 44th annual Thanksgiving Ball, given under the auspices of Pennebecque.

The visitors, captured the first and third strings, especially in the final their strength went on record with a margin of 47 candles that carried them ahead for the game total.

Delmont was high striker in singles with 110 and highest man in the match. Per Lewiston, Frost reached highest for singles with 107 and Campbell led in doubles with 92.

The store near the school building occupied many years by L. Gilbert as a grocery store, and owned by George P. Locke, Norway, Vt., built by the late E. M. Thomas, for shoe repairing, recently occupied by R. C. Dunham as a shoe store.

The store recently occupied as a public cash market, owned by C. E. Verenis, the fruit dealer, also the dental office, upstairs, occupied by the late Dr. H. P. Jones for many years. All these are on Main Street and nicely located for business.

Harold A. Anderson expects to stage the drama "Turn to the Right" for the Congregational Society. Books have been ordered and several cast members when they arrive.

Ben Richardson, who has been laid up several weeks with an ulcer on his leg, is gaining and expects to get to work within a short time. Tom Austin has been taking his place as fireman at the W. F. Tibbs Co.

It is reported that a ban has gone into effect on the dirt roads until June 1st, next. Unless the ground freezes soon, this will slow down shipments of pulp wood that are hauled to the depot every day. Orders issued by the state highway commission are: no commercial vehicle with a gross weight, including load, of more than 10,000 lbs. shall be operated over any state road, state aid or third class improved highway between now and June 1st, next.

South L. Chipman have moved into the house at the corner of Mrs. Ida's house. The house is known as the "adjoining the Maine Cottage Street located in the town of Norway, Col. Chipman, Friday, charged with the larceny of about $2500, and has confessed, officials declare, that he turned $1700 in bank notes and $800 in stocks and coupons into a stream.

Deceatou waived hearing, pleaded not guilty, and furnished $1500 bail for appearance at the December term of the U. S. District Court. Commissioner Geo. F. Gould furnished bail.

According to two Boston postoffice inspectors, Deceatou was in the post office at Norway, Saturday, when two registered mail packages, addressed to the Federal Reserve Bank in Boston, from the Norway National Bank, were found in a safe by a clerk. It is alleged he snatched past the open safe, reached in and took out the packages.

Reaching a bridge over a stream, he examined the load and threw the bonds and coupons into the water, the officials report.

In explanation of his actions according to officials, Deceatou said he took the bonds and coupons to the bank, where when he saw so much negotiable paper and money, he became panic stricken and instinctively sought to destroy the bonds and coupons. None of the missing property has been recovered, it is understood.

Assistant cashier, Percy Y. Fogg of the Norway National Bank, says the bank will sustain no loss whatever as the packages were insured. Mrs. Deceatou says everything is in their possession.

The postoffice inspector arrived here Tuesday were J. W. Hunt and J. E. A. Sullivan of Boston and E. J. Winston of Lewiston.

CHILD SEVERELY INJURED BY AUTO

Constance Rose Fogg, aged 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Fogg, was knocked down on Main Street and her head severely injured, Wednesday noon, by a Ford touring car operated by "Bud" Young of this town. She is in the C. M. G. Hospital.

The child was returning from school in Mrs. Arthur W. Easton's automobile. She alighted from the car opposite Fletcher's candy store, to walk to her home, which is about a distance of 100 ft. Unmindful of the approaching Ford, she started to cross the street, and was knocked down and carried to the hospital. The injured girl was hurried to the office of Dr. Ivan W. Staples nearby, and later removed to her home in an unconscious condition.

Early in the afternoon she was taken to the Central Maine General Hospital where an operation was performed on the skull near the base of the brain, where the bones were fractured. She is reported as comfortable.

Wind and Rain Caused Havoc

Worst Gale in Many Years

The gale that swept over northern New England late Thursday, reached this section of Maine shortly after midnight and left in its wake wrecked telephone lines, uprooted trees, gullied highways and damaged buildings.

Strong winds from the southeast, Thursday evening was preliminary for the main day of the storm. The wind suddenly increased in violence and developed into a furious gale that shook houses, bowled over large trees, kicked off screens from porches, ripped away sheet iron roofing, pelted sign boards and cut up generally.

A heavy downpour of rain driven by the wind worked through eaves and cracks in houses, causing much damage to ceilings and interior furnishings.

Five poles of the Maine Telephone & Telegraph Co. went flat between Fair St. and the exhibition hall on the fair grounds. Two cables hanging from the poles were injured in the crash and communication in the Twin Towns was not interrupted. Several toll lines on the poles were out of commission until the construction crew untangled the mass.

Sheet iron roofing on Tucker Street schoolhouse was lifted and twisted about. The same thing happened at Lester V. Ashton's residence. Many shade trees were broken and battered, leaving the streets cluttered with limbs and twigs. In some cases, window panes, boxes, barrels, fragments of composition roofing, and screens were blown some feet from their original setting.

Rains caused great damage by washing out roads and swelling the streams almost to freshet height. This includes the village and Elm Hill, Norway Branch. Much low land in other sections was under water, Friday and Saturday.

The only train service Friday was the way freight that started in the morning from Bethel. Trains carrying mail, express and passengers were held up. One between Bethel and Shabam was delayed by a wash-out and trains from Portland were unable to leave the city, therefore were cancelled. Not for many years has a violent rain storm completely cut off passenger train service on the Grand Trunk line and seldom does a winter blizzard cause many hours delay. Boston papers were not delivered, morning dailies from Lewiston and Portland came by auto some hours behind schedule, but the evening editions were practically on time. No school signal was sounded on the fire alarm and everybody not obliged to take the storm kept indoors.

The storm reached its height about daylight and held on for several hours, diminishing with showers that ceased before night. The wind also gave up its sport and veered westward, bringing perfect weather for Saturday.

Nearby towns suffered heavily, especially those located along the Androscoggin River. This river that drains a large watershed rose rapidly until banks were overflowed and low lands submerged.

At Bethel, the intervals in the Androscoggin valley and villages were turned into a veritable lake. The state highway from the depot to the Wm. W. Mason place was under four feet of water. A temporary structure at the toll bridge was swept away, cutting off Mayville village, Swan's Corner, and Newry from Bethel village. All that district was without lights of electric power while the storm raged. Several families were taken from their homes in boats and a number of horses kept in a barn on Hastings Island were drowned, others were rescued with difficulty. Not in forty-five years has the river gone on a rampage like this.

High water at Locke's Mills caused great damage. Dwellings were submerged and a bridge over the main highway collapsed.

Five inches of rain is reported to have fallen in Berlin, N. H., where flooded conditions existed. Only the roads were drowned while attempting to prevent a log jam.

At Gorham, N. H., water covered the golf course to a depth of three feet and more. Several important bridges were swept away in that section.

The district around Rumford also was hard hit with considerable damage inflicted to the Rumford Falls and Rangeley Lake railroad along Swift River.

The brunt of the storm was felt along the Connecticut valley where towns and cities in Vermont, western Massachusetts and portions of Connecticut suffered heavily. Dams burst, bridges were carried away and buildings submerged or demolished. Red Cross relief and contributions from other sources were sent in to stricken districts, unable to meet this emergency. Press dispatches indicated at least 150 lives were lost and thousands made homeless. Property loss is reckoned in millions.

New Building Projects by Summer Visitors

From reports received at the State of Maine Publicity Bureau here from all sections of the state, a great impetus has been given in real estate transactions and new building projects as a result of the past summer tourist season. Although an accurate estimate cannot be given at this time, the figures on hand already run over a million dollars. This includes real estate transfers and new building orders on a large scale for summer homes, given by visitors here who have decided to become permanent summer residents.

One section where several hundred thousand dollars will be invested is in the York-Kennebunk and Ogunquit district. Another section that has received great impetus since the summer months is Castine.

The number of permanent summer residents has been steadily increasing the past three years as people come to know Maine and her attractions and opportunities better.

This conclusively shows that the summer tourist business cannot be judged by the money left by the tourists during the summer months, but that the tourist creates an all-year industry that brings employment to many and adds many permanent tax payers in the state.

ANDOVER

Bridges Swept Away in Flood—Mail Delivered in Canoes

With 24 hours of steady downpour of rain, Thursday night and Friday, Andover was visited by the worst autumn storm in the memory of the oldest inhabitants. Friday morning the water in Black Brook, Ellis River and Stony Brook rose until the surrounding roads and intervals were completely inundated.

Black Brook bridge, Stony Brook bridge, Crocker bridge, the bridge near Frank Gordon's house, and the bridge at the N. E. Small farm, also the bridges on Abbott Brook at the farms of Sidney Abbott and Roger Thurston, were swept away by the flood. The mail was carried by canoe. Several families were taken from their homes in boats and a number of horses kept in a barn on Hastings Island were drowned, others were rescued with difficulty. Not in forty-five years has the river gone on a rampage like this.

Line of Demarkation

Brings to the Mind of the Older People the History of the Past

Why should the "Welcome to South Paris—Goodbye, Come Again" sign hang over the road near the Fair Ground at the Rumford Falls Hotel?

It causes unpleasant recollection. It brings to mind when the Paris line was about 100 feet east of Main Street, Norway. The bitter fight waged by the fathers and the dividing line was moved beyond the burying ground. The legislative fight continued and the line was moved to where it is now. It took more than a half century to bury those acres. In fact, death alone was the healing balm.

I don't question the right to maintain the sign where it is. But I'd have no marker whatever, between the two villages. We are all one village practically, and have been for a few years.

When I'm showing off to see that suspended-over-head sign. It serves no good purpose. When I demonstrate that there are no divisions between the two places and we come to that banner, the stranger says, "You told me there was no divisional line between the two villages." It puts me in the lie, you see! I have to make unnecessary explanation, which could be avoided if the sign was not there.

And again, when I really want to make an impression on the stranger that pretty much all South Paris is in Norway, I have to take the party on a back street to get away from that overhead sign. I wish it could be taken in. I wouldn't object to a sign on the corner of Paris Street and the Rumford road. Have the sign the usual way, "Norway-Paris" set in the usual style.

It would contribute to such a sign. The cost would not be great and it would answer the purpose and not so jar my nerves as does the overhead one. Why do it?

Joe Jones won't object. His son, Ed, sells as much furniture coming into Norway as Ray Eastman does going into Paris. Joe has sold as many cigars, tobacco and pipes to Norway as Ray has to Paris. People in the past forty years. Am willing to gamble on it. I don't blame Joe for objecting to the sign. It was a years ago of change the name of the station to Norway Junction. That was a blow under the belt. The taking down of the sign isn't. See! Why not?

An outside corner of the New England fool was all that befell our town. The one day's rainfall last Friday raised the river to a greater extent than any spring freshet has done for years. Train service was cut off by the water, and above and below us likewise telegraph and mail and electric power for several hours. There was some slight road damage, but nothing compared with our neighboring towns and states for which we were very fortunate.

Mrs. Persis Shedd of Portland, State President of the Women's Universalist Missionary Society, and a National officer spoke at the Universalist church last Sunday morning service.

Ethel Richardson has gone to Ogunquit to teach in a family with two pupils. The people are employed there by the Brown Lumber Co. and are isolated from common school privileges. She is very pleasantly situated in the family with school room apartment and a piano. She likes very much.

The Sunday evening service last Sunday at the Federated church consisted of several hymns selected with interesting accounts concerning their origin given by some one and then the hymn sung, which was a complete change from the usual Sunday evening preaching and prayer service.

Ethel May Shorey Dramatic Co. were here Monday and Tuesday nights at Grange Hall with their usual good patronage. They intend to be here the second night but the recent storm prevented.

B. L. Hutchins, the Jeweler, has just returned from Boston with the largest and best assortment of Diamonds, Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, Silverware, Cut Glass and hand-painted China ever displayed in Norway. You are cordially invited to inspect same.

The Parent-Teacher meeting will be held next Monday evening. A good program.

The school entertainment of last Tuesday was a success, the program consisted of recitations, songs and dialogues by the children. A pleasing feature was the song by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Swinton who were dressed to represent an aged couple in "Ye Olden Times" and sang "Just Plain Folks." They were called back and responded with "Sweet Adeline." A box supper followed, the boxes being auctioned off by Walter Appleby, also there were pies, cakes and candy for sale. A good sum of $18.00 was cleared.

The week end of October 29 and 30, our girls attended the State Conference (Christian Endeavor) in Portland, as delegates from the Denmark Society.

Dr. Felling, the National President of Christian Endeavor work, spoke upon "What Of Youth" and expressed what he believed in regard to youth and why he believed it. He said above all things we must have faith in our young people and they will live up to higher ideals because there are those who trust in them.

In answering the question, "What Do I Owe Young People?" he said, "First, I owe them my time. All together too much do we neglect them because we think we are too busy to bother. Secondly, we owe them understanding. Try to understand the meaning that is behind their words, look through their eyes. Next, we owe them our confidence, which is most important. And lastly, we owe them work in the church work. Give them a chance to be done." He closed with the poem, "The Triumphant Prince of Peace."

While there, the girls were given the Recognition Service of the Girl Reserves by the Stevens Avenue group. We feel confident that our girls are going to help the community to a great extent. They are to organize this week.
